

ROBIN ENDS FLIGHT AFTER 420 HOURS

ZEPPELIN PREPARED TO SET SAIL FOR AMERICA

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, July 31.—Equipped with a new device to enable emergency landings on the sea, the giant German dirigible Graf Zeppelin rested in her hangar today, completely fueled and ready to take off for Lakehurst, N. J., tomorrow morning. The start now depends solely on the weather, and indications today were that all would be favorable for an early start tomorrow. The process of loading food and drink aboard the great ship continued throughout the day, but all material preparations in connection with the flight have been completed.

INCREASE SAFETY
The problem of a forced ocean descent, which has been a matter of considerable concern to officials of the Zeppelin works, was solved in the simplest possible manner by attaching air-filled lengths of waterproof hose beneath the passenger gondola. Zeppelin experts are confident the device will not be needed, but it is regarded as increasing the element of safety for trans-Atlantic crossings.

Mr. and Mrs. George Crouse of Syracuse, N. Y., who are to be among the Zeppelin's passengers, are expected here sometime this afternoon. They arrived in France yesterday aboard the Mauretania after a hurried trip from the United States to be on time for the departure.

MRS. PIERCE ILL
Two other would-be American passengers, Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Pierce of New York, have sent word from Saratoga, Russia, that they will be unable to make the crossing due to illness contracted by Mrs. Pierce while rushing to Friedrichshafen from the interior of the Soviet Republic.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierce would love to go with the Zeppelin, but an unexpected illness has prevented them. Mrs. Pierce cabled her best to the officers and crew of the Zeppelin.

Pierce was the only woman passenger aboard the Zeppelin on its last attempt to reach America, when it was caught in a heavy storm over the Rhine and forced down in the south of France.

All the other passengers, who include several Americans, are now at Friedrichshafen anxiously awaiting the take-off.

MISS WONG REFUSED
There was considerable amusement when Anna May Wong, the American born Chinese movie star, appeared at Friedrichshafen in a flaming crimson mink costume to present personally her application for a berth aboard the dirigible. In spite of the fact that the Pierces' reservations had been cancelled, Miss Wong was told it would be impossible for her to take part in the flight, as many other applications had previously taken priority over hers.

Miss Wong, however, obtained some consolation by booking passage for two doves to be sent aboard the Zeppelin to her brother, a student at the University of California.

GOODMAN RITES HELD TUESDAY

Funeral services for the late Alfred Goodman held from his home in Madison-twp Tuesday afternoon were largely attended. Many friends of the family were present at Crouse cemetery in Ross-co. where interment was made under the direction of the Albaugh Co.

Rev. E. E. Fowler, of Groveport, was the officiating minister and the pall bearers were: H. C. Penner, Geo. Zwayner, J. F. Radcliffe, Milton Morris, Noah Warner and Walter Dearth.

Burial in Crouse cemetery was on the lot on which the bodies of the last four members of the family had been interred, his brother, Samuel Goodman who died on May 3, 1922, and his two sisters, Miss Sarah Goodman and Miss Nancy Goodman who died on Jan. 21 and 27, 1929.

FINED FOR FIGHTING
Ira Rose and William Murray, South Bloomfield, were fined $5 and costs and Luther McNeal was bound over to the grand jury Wednesday on charges of fighting and disorderly conduct.

Warden E. S. Jennings, above, of Auburn Prison, inaugurated the prison self-government and Mutual Welfare Leagues at the great "pen" where 1,700 convicts rioted and attempted to force a wholesale jail delivery. The outbreak had been carefully planned and took the authorities completely by surprise. The final check-up shows that four escaped.

SEES WHEAT MART BREAK

Farm Bureau Head Says Present Free Movement Must Be Stopped.

COLUMBUS, O., July 31.—(INS)—Unless there is a halt in the present free movement of wheat from the farms or the nation there is imminent danger of a further break in the wheat market.

Such an opinion was expressed today by M. R. Maney, head of the grand-purchasing department of the Ohio Farm Bureau Corporation.

Maney pointed out that most of the big mills and terminal markets are now full of wheat, and that the grain continues to be dumped in great quantities on markets throughout the country, which are already glutted.

The Ohio crop is nearly four times greater than last year, Maney said, and there is evidence that the farmers are holding a considerable amount of wheat. The Ohio wheat movement is about at its peak now, but no Ohio wheat has been moved for export, according to the Farm Bureau official.

BETTING IS UP TO LOCALITY-COOPER

COLUMBUS, July 31.—Governor Myers Y. Cooper and Attorney General Gilbert Bettman today stood pat on their position that it is up to local authorities to enforce the laws prohibiting gambling at race tracks.

This attitude on the part of state officials was made clear at conference here late Monday between the governor, attorney general and a delegation of citizens of Bainbridge. Geauga-co. The delegation included representatives of church circles at Bainbridge who were seeking some method of preventing gambling at the Bainbridge track.

Governor Cooper today was under the impression, as a result of his conference with the delegation, that these Bainbridge residents will give further consideration to the situation with a view to devising some plan whereby the local authorities will prevent gambling at the track.

HELD ON CHARGE OF POINTING GUN
"He told me to come back in the alley that he intended to finish me right away" were the words which Roy Miller used in filing a complaint against John Cramlett.

Cramlett was arrested by Deputy Ward and placed in the county jail where he is being held awaiting a hearing to be given him sometime today on the charge of pointing firearms.

Evidently the gun didn't go off for no one is injured.

"WE" UNHURT IN 2 WRECKS

First Accident At Columbus and Second At Newark In Same Day.

NEWARK, N. J., July 31.—Safe and sound despite two accidents in one day, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were resting at the Robert Treat Hotel here today following their arrival from Columbus, Ohio.

The first accident occurred at Columbus when the bursting of a tire while landing caused their plane, a Curtiss Falcon biplane, to turn upon its left wing-tip.

Arriving at the Newark airport at 11:50 last night, the forward strut supporting the left wheel collapsed as the plane touched the ground throwing the left wing-tip into the ground and heaving the nose forward into the runway.

The plane stood on its nose, the tail pointing at a sharp angle toward the sky, while Col. Lindbergh and his wife emerged unscathed from the cockpits. Investigation of the machine showed that the propeller was bent, the left wing tip badly torn and the landing gear broken.

Officials of the Newark Airport hazarded the guess that the strut might have been fractured or weakened in the Columbus mishap. The Lindberghs were considerably shaken by the accident, but suffered no injuries. It was explained that the machine "ground-looped" upon landing, thus causing the strut to give way.

Neither the flying Colonel nor his bride would discuss the accident.

ELEVEN MEN, ONE WOMAN TO HEAR CASE

Emergency Juror Yet To Be Named, Then Court Is Ready For Trial.

(By JAMES L. KILGALLAN)
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.
COURTROOM, COLUMBUS, O., July 31.—After six days of wrangling, a jury to try Dr. James H. Snook, former Ohio State university professor, for the murder of Miss Theora Hix, attractive young co-ed, was selected shortly before noon today. The jury is comprised of eleven men and one woman.

A thirteenth or emergency juror was yet to be selected. This task will be begun this afternoon when the jury is sworn in. Earlier in the day, defense attorneys requested the court to adjourn the trial because of the "serious illness" of Dr. Snook, but Judge Henry L. Scarlett overruled the motion, asserting the defendant was strong enough to remain in court.

ASK TO DISMISS JURY
Both the defense and state announced at 11:48 this morning that they were "satisfied with the jury as now constituted." The court then said the jury would be sworn in but before this was done the defense entered a blanket challenge of the entire jury array. This was regarded as a technicality but served to delay the swearing in of the jury until the afternoon session as Judge Henry L. Scarlett adjourned court until 1:30 p. m., so the attorneys could argue the question in the absence of the jury.

Judge Scarlett overruled the defense motion to oust the whole jury. He was twice married. His first wife was Katie Spangler Hoffman who died a number of years ago. Mrs. Katie Bowman Hoffman, his second wife, survives him. There are no children. He was affiliated with the Knights of Pythias lodge of Stoutsville.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday afternoon at the home at 2 o'clock by the Rev. J. M. Wenrick with burial in the Maplehill cemetery by the H. E. Deffenbaugh funeral home.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Clifton and children, Betty, Jack and Dick, and Mrs. M. C. Mosely and daughter, Helen, have arrived home from Buckeye Lake, where with Mrs. Clifton's sister and brother, Miss Cecilia Wihl and Louis Wihl, of Columbus, they made up a vacation party at the lake.

Dayton Celebrates New Municipal Airport Described as Model of Skies

Great Time In City To Last Through Two Days—New Planes To Be Tried.

DAYTON, O., July 31.—(INS)—A "flaming comet" darted over darkened Dayton last night, and today, this city, the "cradle of aviation," had entered into a two-day celebration inaugurating the new municipal airport, described by U. S. Army Air Service officials as the most complete model port of the skies.

Lieutenant W. H. Brookley, veteran of many spectacular night flights, fired the "opening gun" of the celebration when he flew a special plane over Dayton, leaving in its trail a brilliant path of red fire, a "flaming comet."

Many airplanes from all parts of the country arrived today to take part in the air fête.

One of the Wright Brothers' early planes was reassembled and placed on display.

Captain John A. MacReady, widely known high altitude flyer, will test his newly designed airplane today. It is on the monoplane type and the engine is set above the wing section.

Big aerial pyrotechnical displays will be set off tonight about the airport, which is located at Vandalia, a suburb.

DOLLAR BILL BACK IN BANK

Youthful Robber Loses Nerve, Leaves Car and Runs After Robbery.

DAYTON, O., July 31.—(INS)—A mutilated one dollar bill was back in the coffers of the Englewood bank today after passing through a bank robbery as the only loot a young and nervy bandit obtained in a holdup of Englewood's money depository yesterday.

The car which the suspect used was abandoned and the one dollar bill was found as a cap which had been left in the machine. The bandit is said to have been last seen in Verona, where he is believed to reside.

It is thought that the robbery was attempted in order to obtain money to meet a check which he gave in payment for a new car recently purchased at Laura, O.

Miss Della Rush, assistant bookkeeper, foiled robbery by stepping on burglar alarm. She prevented a holdup in 1925 in a similar manner.

DEATH TO PAL CAUSES END OF LONG FLIGHT

Jackson, O'Brine Are To Face Great Test today—All St. Louis Celebrates.

BULLETIN
ST. LOUIS, July 31.—(ANS)—Here is the statistical story of the record-breaking endurance flight of the St. Louis Robin.

Soaring into the air at 7:17 on the bright Saturday morning of July 13, the sturdy endurance plane with its air-cooled Challenger engine used, during its 17 days, 12 hours and 21 minutes:

3,500 gallons of gasoline; 158 gallons of oil; Made 77 contacts with the refueling plane for all purposes; 43 for the actual delivery of gasoline.

The propeller averaging 1,300 revolutions to the minute turned over almost 33,000,000 times.

The joint prize earned by the two pilots, Dale "Red" Jackson and Forest O'Brine, totals approximately $31,355. This means about $15,000 apiece for the pilots.

In its monotonous merry-go-round trip about the airport the St. Louis Robin traveled 25,200 miles or farther than the distance around the world at the equator.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 31.—Although Dale "Red" Jackson and Forest O'Brine were sleeping peacefully in the palatial Queen Marie suite of the Commodore hotel here this morning, after setting an amazing world's endurance flight record of 120 hours and 21 minutes, the pilots' real endurance test was to start today.

MUST FACE TEST
For St. Louisans, who have been forced to watch their air idols from a distance of 4,000 feet or more as they soared above them for 17 and a half days in their cloud clinging air castle, the St. Louis Robin, were determined, now that they had the boys with them, to shower the pilots with the praise and admiration they had been forced to contain for nearly two weeks and a half.

Beginning at noon today with a banquet to be tendered the flyers by the air board of the Chamber of Commerce, the stamina of the doughty pilots would be tested anew by a series of fetes and celebrations calculated to bring terror to the hearts even of these two who defied the elements and law of gravity for a record-breaking period.

The flight of the Robin provides some interesting reading. The plane landed officially at 7:38 o'clock last night. It had left the ground Saturday, July 13.

The new world's record topped the old mark of the Angeleno at Culver City, Cal., by 173 hours and 38 minutes, or more than seven days, five and a half hours.

ENGINE GOOD
The Challenger engine, despite the terrific wear and tear, was functioning smoothly as the fly-

Mrs. Pierce was the only woman passenger aboard the Zeppelin on its last attempt to reach America, when it was caught in a heavy storm over the Rhone and forced down in the south of France.

Dayton Celebrates New Municipal Airport Described as Model of Skies

Great Time In City To Last Through Two Days—New Planes To Be Tried.

DAYTON, O., July 31.—(INS)—A "flaming comet" darted over darkened Dayton last night, and today, this city, the "cradle of aviation," had entered into a two-day celebration inaugurating the new municipal airport, described by U. S. Army Air Service officials as the most complete model port of the skies.

Lieutenant W. H. Brookley, veteran of many spectacular night flights, fired the "opening gun" of the celebration when he flew a special plane over Dayton, leaving in its trail a brilliant path of red fire, a "flaming comet."

Many airplanes from all parts of the country arrived today to take part in the air fete.

One of the Wright Brothers early planes was reassembled and placed on display.

Captain John A. MacReady, widely known high altitude flyer, will test his newly designed airplane today. It is on the monoplane type and the engine is set above the wing section.

DOLLAR BILL BACK IN BANK

Youthful Robber Loses Nerve, Leaves Car and Runs After Robbery.

DAYTON, O., July 31.—(INS.)—A mutilated one dollar bill was back in the coffers of the Englewood bank today after passing through a bank robbery as the only loot a young and nervy bandit obtained in a holdup of Englewood's money depository yesterday.

The car which the suspect used was abandoned and the one dollar bill was found as was a cap which had been left in the machine. The bandit is said to have been seen in Verona, where he is believed to reside.

It is thought that the robbery was attempted in order to obtain money to meet a check which he gave in payment for a new car recently purchased at Laura, O. Miss Della Rush, assistant bookkeeper, foiled robbery by stepping on burglar alarm. She prevented a holdup in 1925 in a similar manner.

DEATH TO PAL CAUSES END OF LONG FLIGHT

Jackson, O'Brine Are To Face Great Test today—All St. Louis Celebrates.

BULLETIN
ST. LOUIS, July 31.—(INS)—Here is the statistical story of the record-breaking endurance flight of the St. Louis Robin.

Soaring into the air at 7:17 on the bright Saturday morning of July 13, the sturdy endurance plane with its air-cooled Challenger engine used, during its 17 days, 12 hours and 21 minutes:

3,500 gallons of gasoline;
158 gallons of oil;
Made 77 contacts with the refueling plane for all purposes; 48 for the actual delivery of gasoline.

The propeller averaging 1,300 revolutions to the minute turned over almost 33,000,000 times.

The joint prize earned by the two pilots, Dale "Red" Jackson and Forest O'Brine, totals approximately $81,255. This means about $15,000 apiece for the pilots.

In its monotonous merry-go-round trip about the airport the St. Louis Robin traveled 25,200 miles or farther than the distance around the world at the equator.

By ROBERT A. HEREFORD
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 31.—Although Dale "Red" Jackson and Forest O'Brine were sleeping peacefully in the palatial Queen Marie suite of the Coronado hotel here this morning, after setting an amazing world's endurance flight record of 420 hours and 21 minutes, the pilots' real endurance test was to start today.

MUST FACE TEST
For St. Louisians, who have been forced to watch their air idols from a distance of 4,000 feet or more as they soared above them for 17 and a half days in their cloud clinging air castle, the St. Louis Robin, were determined, now that they had the boys with them, to shower the pilots with the praise and admiration they had been forced to contain for nearly two weeks and a half.

Beginning at noon today with a banquet to be tendered the flyers by the air board of the Chamber of Commerce, the stamina of the doughty pilots would be tested anew by a series of fetes and celebrations calculated to bring terror to the hearts even of these two who defied the elements and law of gravity for a record-breaking period.

The flight of the Robin provides some interesting reading. The plane landed officially at 7:38 o'clock last night. It had left the ground Saturday, July 13.

The new world's record topped the old mark of the Angelino at Culver City, Cal., by 173 hours and 38 minutes, or more than seven days, five and a half hours.

ENGINE GOOD
The Challenger engine, despite the terrific wear and tear, was functioning smoothly as the fly-day. (Turn to page five, please)

ROOSTER PECKS OUT EYE OF SMALL BOY

KANSAS CITY, Kas., July 31.—A small boy here may lose the sight of his left eye as the result of an attack on him by a large rooster in the yard of his home here recently.

Felix Albertson, Jr., 2 years old, was saved from further injuries when his mother, hearing his screams rushed out and drove the rooster away.

The rooster was killed.

SAN QUENTIN HAS TOO MANY CATS

SAN QUENTIN, July 31.—

Want a kitten? Just apply to Warden James B. Holohan, and he'll supply any order—if you're not particular about "jail-bird" felines.

In fact, San Quentin prison is literally "going to the cats." Somehow, they broke in, and thrived on penitentiary fare. Then came kittens aplenty.

So the distracted warden is willing to parole kittens in carload lots, retaining a few for pets.

EAGLES PLAY HERE SUNDAY

Tackle Fast Grove City Team With Chance To Go Into
First Place Tie.

Grove City's fast baseball team will invade Circleville next Sunday to try to keep the Eagles from mounting into the coveted first place position.

Playing an excellent brand of baseball and topping their season's play with a well deserved 4-1 victory over the leading Francis Dry Cleaners last Sunday, the Eagles are now just one full contest behind the Cleaners and if that team loses at Pataskala Sunday and the locals win there will be two occupants of first place. Plain City also has a chance to go into tie for the lead when they play the Havoline Oils.

The Eagles will play their contest at the local lot and will be playing before a local throng for the first time in two weeks, having done their pastiming at Ashville last week. Local fans will be glad to have their club back again as a fast baseball game such as this team has been putting out is nothing to scoff at.

Both Clubs Play Fast Ball But
Ward's Gang Can't Hit

The newly organized Ward's Ten met its second defeat Tuesday evening when the C. A. C. trampled over it by the score of 5 to 3. The game was close until the fifth when the C. A. C. scored three runs. Two of these were made by errors.

Both teams took a new player last night. Manager Glitt of the club teams selected Geib for his first baseman and Ward selected Owens for an outfielder. Both of these new players showed good ability at their positions.

Pickens, Glitt, Robinson and McGran were the scorers for the club and Butler, Rader and Smith for the deputy's team. Ward's Ten are again shoved into sixth place with the Pettit Tires and advances the Brotherhood into fifth place.

Smartest Class

According to Dr. Edward E. Free, New York scientist, mechanics constitute the most intelligent class of the nation. Next come engineers and technical men, with business men third. Actors, physicians, ministers and professors rank lowest, excluding the large class of moroses. He based this rating on the hypothesis that intelligence is the ability to reach a correct conclusion from discoverable facts.—New York World Magazine.

Tackle Fast Grove City Team With Chance To Go Into First Place Tie.

Grove City's fast baseball team will invade Circleville next Sunday to try to keep the Eagles from mounting into the coveted first place position.

Playing an excellent brand of baseball and topping their season's play with a well deserved 4-1 victory over the leading Francis Dry Cleaners last Sunday, the Eagles are now just one full contest behind the Cleaners and if that team loses at Pataskala Sunday and the locals win there will be two occupants of first place. Plain City also has a chance to go into a tie for the lead when they play the Havoline Oils.

The Eagles will play their contest at the local lot and will be playing before a local throng for the first time in two weeks, having done their pastime at Ashville last week. Local fans will be glad to have their club back again as a fast baseball game such as this team has been putting out is nothing to scoff at.

GAME GOES TO C.A.C. 5 TO 3

Both Clubs Play Fast Ball But Ward's Gang Can't Hit With Men On.

The newly organized Ward's Ten met its second defeat Tuesday evening when the C. A. C. trampled over it by the score of 5 to 3. The game was close until the fifth when the C. A. C. scored three runs. Two of these were made by errors.

Both teams took a new player last night. Manager Glitt of the club teams selected Geib for his first baseman and Ward selected Owens for an outfielder. Both of these new players showed good ability at their positions.

Pickens, Glitt, Robinson and McGran were the scorers for the club and Butler, Rader and Smith for the deputy's team. Ward's Ten are again shoved into sixth place with the Pettit Tires and advances the Brotherhood into fifth place.

SPINAGO

When the THERMOMETER Stands at 90°

THAT'S THE TIME TO KEEP YOUR SYSTEM CLEAN—AND SPINAGO IS THE ONE TONIC TO DEPEND UPON.

During these hot days poisons and waste materials pile up in the human body with resulting lack of energy, loss of appetite, bowel and liver complaints. Often more serious and acute ailments result from this condition. It is always important to keep the system clear but it is doubly necessary when the body must fight abnormally hot weather.

This new tonic containing spinach prevents such sluggish condition in the bowels, keeping refuse matter moving through the body in Nature's own way, because it's most important ingredient is one of Nature's most valuable correctives. And, at the same time, Spinago nourishes the body scientifically, replenishing the energy sapped by the terrific heat.

Smartest Class

According to Dr. Edward E. Free, New York scientist, mechanics constitute the most intelligent class of the nation. Next come engineers and technical men, with business men third. Actors, physicians, ministers and professors rank lowest, excluding the large class of morons. He based this rating on the hypothesis that intelligence is the ability to reach a correct conclusion from discoverable facts.—New York World Magazine.

The New BUICK

NEW Fisher styling... NEW 99 Horsepower Valve-in-Head Engine*
NEW Controlled Servo Mechanical Brakes... NEW Steering Gear
NEW Road Shock Eliminator... NEW Double Acting Shock Absorbers
NEW Non Glare Windshield.

America has taken this new Buick to its heart. Millions have thronged to see it... tens of thousands have already placed orders... all have found that in the five major elements of motor car appeal—beauty, performance, comfort, safety, value—this new Buick with Body by Fisher strides far ahead of any other car in the entire quality field.

New Fisher Styling

The new Buick Bodies by Fisher are longer, lower, more luxurious. They reveal new Fisher styling—new beauty of line and appointment—new colors—which have won outspoken admiration. And they introduce a host of new features including the new Fisher Non-Glare Windshield for safer night driving; new and richer upholstery; and new fittings and appointments of princely luxury.

Pacemaker of Performance

Moreover, Buick for 1930 reveals this same marked supremacy—this same increased leadership—in fleet, spirited behavior on the road. Its new and bigger Valve-in-Head engine—developing 99 horsepower—provides matchless new virility, pick-up, swiftness and flexibility. A single drive will prove it the pacemaker of performance. And the same drive will disclose marvelous new handling ease, comfort and safety, due to a new and improved steering gear and new road shock eliminator; new double-acting shock absorbers which check both bound and rebound; and new controlled Servo enclosed mechanical brakes, the most effective braking system on any car in the world.

See, Drive and Own This New Buick

Bear in mind, this new Buick with its many advancements is offered at new low prices—in three new series and three new wheelbases, with only one standard of quality throughout—the finest in its field. Come see the new Buicks and arrange to drive one. Among the 14 attractive body types is exactly the Buick for you.

*The new engine in the 132- and 124-inch wheelbase series develops 99 horsepower—and the new engine in the 118-inch series, 80½ horsepower.

Campmeeting Notes From Stoutsville

Sunday was a big day at the U.
B. camp grounds. The heavy rain
of early Saturday had dampened
the ground thoroughly and freshened everything so that it was very pleasant and comfortable under the trees, although the sun shone brightly. Large crowds attended all day and heard the splendid sermons of Dr. Williams, who preached three times. His evening
message was especially fine,
speaking upon "The Home." Already conviction has touched

hearts and one young man found
the Savior in the evening service.
Mr. McMurry and Mrs. Williams
sang and played several numbers
upon their stringed instruments
which were greatly enjoyed by all,
one especially a spiritual, "One Day I'm going Higher."

An interesting visitor upon the camp grounds this year is the Evangelist Mark Salmon of Chicago, the "Wandering Jew," a converted Jew, who tells his thrilling experience of his conversion to the Christian religion. Rev. Salmon was born in London, England, of Orthodox Jewish parents.

Throughout the faithful work of a Sunday school teacher, he and his entire family were converted to Christianity. He is now giving full time to the Christian ministry and

five of his children are in missionary work. One daughter is serving in African Congo and another daughter is in the mission field in China.

Circleville folks are urged to go to the camp ground to hear these ministers of the gospel and the fine musical programs.

Jack Imler, son of Mr. and Mrs.
Russell Imler, E. Mound-st, underwent an operation Tuesday morning for the removal of his tonsils.
The operation was performed by
Dr. C. G. Stewart of E. Main-st.

ENTER 12TH YEAR OF RUST BATTLE

In mid-August a 12-year offensive against black stem rust, menace
to Ohio's wheat crop, will come to an end, but another long offensive will start at once.

The common barberry bush—not
the Japanese barberry—is host to the organism which causes black stem rust of wheat. Workers of the United States Department of Agriculture have for the past 12
years scoured Ohio, going from farm to farm to root out common barberry bushes. By mid-August,

when seven townships in Ashtabula
co have been covered, the entire state will have been covered.

The second systematic survey of the state is in fact now under way
in western Ohio. The 27 barberry hunters now in Ashtabula-co will move to Montgomery and Prob-osc, as soon as they finish their work in Ashtabula-co.

All men employed in barberry eradication are especially trained for the job. All of them are college men, and all but three of the present crew in Ohio have had previous experience as barberry eradicators.

Largely as a result of this systematic eradication of barberry, the average annual wheat growers from black rust during 1924-28 was less two-thirds the average annual

of the preceding five years.

Campmeeting Notes From Stoutsville

Sunday was a big day at the U.
B. camp grounds. The heavy rain
of early Saturday had dampened
the ground thoroughly and freshened everything so that it was
very pleasant and comfortable under the trees, although the sun
shone brightly. Large crowds attended all day and heard the splendid sermons of Dr. Williams, who preached three times. His evening
message was especially fine,
speaking upon "The Home." Already conviction has touched

hearts and one young man found
the Savior in the evening service.
Mr. McMurry and Mrs. Williams
sang and played several numbers
upon their stringed instruments
which were greatly enjoyed by all,
one especially a spiritual, "One
Day I'm going Higher."

An interesting visitor upon the
camp grounds this year is the Evangelist Mark Salmon of Chicago, the "Wandering Jew," a converted Jew, who tells his thrilling
experience of his conversion to the Christian religion. Rev. Solmon was born in London, England, of Orthodox Jewish parents.

Thought the faithful work of a Sunday school teacher, he and his

entire family were converted to Christianity. He is now giving full time to the Christian ministry and
five of his children are in missionary work. One daughter is serving in African Congo and another daughter is in the mission field in China.

Circleville folks are urged to go
to the camp ground to hear these
ministers of the gospel and the
fine musical programs.

Jack Imier, son of Mr. and Mrs.
Russel Imier, E. Mound-st., underwent an operation Tuesday morning for the removal of his tonsils.
The operation was performed by
Dr. C. G. Stewart of E. Main-st.

ENTER 12TH YEAR OF RUST BATTLE

In mid-August a 12-year offensive
against black stem rust, menace
to Ohio's wheat crop, will come to
an end, but another long offensive
will start at once.

The common barberry bush—not
the Japanese barberry—is host to
the organism which causes black stem rust of wheat. Workers of the United States Department of Agriculture have for the past 12
years scoured Ohio, going from
farm to farm to root out common

barberry bushes. By mid-August,
when seven townships in Ashtabula
co have been covered, the entire state will have been covered.

The second systematic survey of
the state is in fact now under way
in western Ohio. The 27 barberry hunters now in Ashtabula-co will move to Montgomery and Preble-cos., as soon as they finish their work in Ashtabula-co.

All men employed in barberry
eradication are especially trained
for the job. All of them are college men, and all but three of the present crew in Ohio have had
previous experience as barberry
eradicators.

Largely as a result of this systematic eradication of barberry bushes, the average annual loss to wheat growers from black stem rust during 1924-28 was less than two-thirds the average annual loss

of the preceding five years.

THE PERIL OF IGNORANCE

The superstitions that were born during the race's infancy die hard. Just as we had nicely forgotten the Pennsylvania "hex" murder, another one pops up—this time in Kalamazoo, Mich.

The bare outline of the story is almost unbelievable, for this year, 1929.

A middle-aged married couple are the culprits. Quite calmly, as if he were telling some tale which any reasonable man ought to understand, the man explained how it was that he and his wife had killed a 76-year-old widow who lived in a home for aged people.

"It had to be done," he said. "She could kill anyone with a look. She could give you any kind of disease with her evil eyes. Why, she has killed more than a hundred people."

Michigan ranks as one of our most "forward" states. Kalamazoo is widely known as a cultured "homey" city. It is not filled with immigrants, nor does it have wretched slums and gloomy tenement neighborhoods. It is precisely the sort of place you would name if you were asked to pick out a town that could represent the middle-sized American city at its best.

Yet, in a town like this, there are, apparently, people whose minds are more enlightened than the minds of superstitious peasants in the middle ages; people who believe in the evil eye, in spells and incantations, in ghostly and sinister powers that lurk in the air ready to bring death and destruction to honest folk.

That, of course, means that there are such people in all our cities and towns. No place of any size is free of them. Demonism and sorcery are not yet subjects solely for the antiquarian.

And all of this exists side by side with advances in technical and scientific knowledge that sometimes persuades us that the race is almost ready to move on to the great heritage which all its gifted dreamers have foreseen!

Our development is too uneven. We are moving with amazing speed, on the surface; but underneath we hardly seem to be moving at all. Somehow we must find a way to equalize things—or we shall stumble into a dreadful mess.

The mass of people has always been superstitious and blind, but it has never particularly mattered before. But this modern age demands modern minds. How can a man who believes in witchcraft and sorcery make his way among wireless telephony, X-ray cameras and television cabinets? He simply can't handle himself. It is like letting a child play with matches in a powder mill.

A democracy needs a high standard of universal education to function well. A mechanized democracy, like ours, needs it ten times as much. The mere existence of ignorant superstition beneath that deep abyss is gaping beneath our entire social structure.

Italians Lay Claim to First Spectacle Maker

It is a little over three hundred years ago since the Worshipful Company of Spectacle Makers received its charter from Charles I and the tercentenary is soon to be commemorated. But it is quite correct to speak of it as being the tercentenary of spectacles? Among the lesser sights of Florence is a house which bears a tablet affixed "to honor the memory of Salvino Degli Armati, inventor of spectacles in the Thirteenth century." Strangely enough, although our own spectacle makers' guild had its charter in 1029, we find Ptolemy, nearly forty years afterward, complaining of his eyesight. He adds: "I am mighty hot upon trying the late experiment of paper tubes." If the Italian claim is authentic, it seems inconceivable that the boon of spectacles should have taken another three centuries to reach us.—Montreal Family Herald.

The Skyscraper Murder

by SAMUEL SPEWACK

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Phillip Edison is host at a night-club party to his just-recently-divorced wife and Oliver Sewell, sportsman and Don Juan. Edison presumes that Sewell and the divorcee are to be married.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER III.
EDISON repaired to the lounge, decorated excessively in the Louis XV period as conceived by a real estate entrepreneur from the Bronx. He lit a cigarette in his impatience and paced up and down the too-thick rug. Finally, weary, he slumped into a gilt armchair and tried to relax, but he couldn't. He kept his head turned to the entrance, watching for Sewell to be ushered in through the bronze door. A half hour passed. Then an hour. Suddenly the telephone operator raced into the lounge. "You wanted to see Mr. Sewell, sir?" He was obviously laboring under considerable excitement, and he did not wait for a reply. "Mr. Sewell's been murdered!"

"Murdered?" The operator swallowed. "I've just telephoned the police. Are you a friend of his?" Edison paused. "Why—yes," he replied finally.

THE MURDER.

INSPECTOR MARX was that type of police officer who, in mystery plays, is made the butt of ridicule. His grammar was primitive, his conversation inelegant, he had no scintillating powers of deduction to present with the flare of the showman. In short, his general equipment fitted him for the police station rather than the stage, which, upon due reflection, is not as incongruous as it may seem.

Ten minutes after the news of Sewell's violent end was telephoned to headquarters, it was relayed to Marx's unpretentious flat in the East Nineties.

"Robbery?" demanded the Inspector of Detective Sergeant Carraway, who was telephoning from Sewell's flat.

"No. Not a sign of it. Looks like straight murder." "All right. I'll be up."

Marx put down the telephone, and his big red face seemed sour with displeasure.

"What's up, precious?" demanded Mrs. Marx, who was big and fat and housewifely.

"Killing." "Who?" Mrs. Marx displayed the usual interest of a spouse in her husband's labor.

"One of those damn society murders." Marx reached for his collar (size seventeen) discarded during an informal but stout dinner, and then swore at a recalcitrant stud. "Fellow named Sewell. Bridge player. . . . mucky-mucky-muck. . . ."

"Oh, it'll go big in the papers." "Yea," grunted Marx. "It'll go big in the papers. They'll be yelling for my scalp!"

"Oh, I don't know, honey. You may get a good break on it." "A good break on a society murder? Show me one of them where we did anything with it. Why, we're helpless. Those society people can't be dragged down to Headquarters on suspicion. You gotta treat 'em with kid gloves. It ain't like a regular killing, where you don't know where you're at."

Marx now tugged at his coat. He believed that crime was the exclusive business of the underworld, and was always annoyed when amateurs forced themselves on the attention of the police. In the underworld there were known criminals and stool pigeons. Every crime had its guide posts. But in these amateur affairs of the emotions a man worked behind a curtain.

In the street, Marx plunged into the subway and was deposited a few doors from the skyscraper

"You found him, didn't you?" "Yes."

"When?" "At two o'clock. I have already told the gentlemen. He gave me the evening off. He was going to a party. And I went to Elizabeth-town where I have my friends, and I did not come home until two o'clock. Then I opened the door and put on the light, and I am thinking of nothing, and I go into this room when—"

The butler turned to look at the seated corpse, and paused. "You found him in this chair?" "Yes. So I go to the elevator, and make excitement, and that is all I know."

"Mmm. . . . Was this your night off?" "No, sir. Mr. Sewell asked me to take the night off."

"Did he often ask you to take the night off?" "Yes."

"Why?" "I do not know."

"How long have you been with him?" "Six months."

"Where were you before?" "Russia."

"Mmm. . . . What did you do in Russia?" "I was an officer in the Guards before the revolution. The man seemed a little more certain of himself then. Marx looking at him could believe he had been a soldier."

"Now, listen," began Marx taking out a cheap cigar and lighting it, "was there anything taken that you know of?"

"I do not know," the butler waved his hands. "Was the place out of order, any?" snapped Marx.

"No. Just like always." "You found him sitting in his chair?" "Yes."

"Dead?" "Yes."

"When did you leave the house?" "At six o'clock."

"And you came back at two?" "Yes, sir."

"So he was murdered between six and two, ha?" "I do not know."

"No. You don't seem to know a helluva lot." Marx glared at him. The butler puzzled him. "You got no idea where he went?" "No, sir."

"You know who his friends are, don't you?" "No, sir. He never told me."

"Oh—he didn't!" Marx sneered. "I suppose nobody ever called on him, did they?" "Yes, sir. They did."

"And when they called they never gave you their names—did they?" Marx was obviously trying to trip the butler.

"No, sir. They didn't." "They didn't? Say—who were his visitors—all women?" "Yes, sir. All women."

"You mean to say a man never called here?" "No, sir. He met his gentlemen at his club. Here was only for women."

"Well—what do you make of that?" Carraway asked Marx. "Nothing much," Marx grunted. "This guy Sewell must be a bear for women. I knew that much before I started out. Now look here—let's go over the doors. Here, you!" This to the butler. "Did you touch any of these doors, when you got in?" "No, sir."

"Nothing wrong with the front door, was there?" "No, sir. I opened it with my key."

"All right. Then you got in here. This door to the terrace was locked?" "Yes, sir. I remember, I was nervous and I noticed, it was the same as usual. Mr. Sewell never went out there. It was always locked."

"What's your name?" growled Marx. "Ivan Stanupin."

"Good." One of the detectives grinned. "I know nothing—nothing at all," the butler protested.

BIG PARADE IS ON AT THE MET

John Gilbert, in that magnificent screen triumph, "The Big Parade," came to the Met theater last night and proved that all his popularity is justly deserved. The picture is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production directed by King Vidor.

Gilbert plays the part of Jimmy Apperson, one of three buddies who went "over there." He is the only one of the three who lives through the maelstrom of the war. As a simple, human soldier boy, Gilbert reaches the high water mark of his career.

"The Big Parade" is the picture which launched Gilbert as a star. No player has been more fortunate in the choice of a first starring vehicle, for the picture is a tremendous and authentic portrayal of the war, a masterpiece in emotion, a great human comedy. Gilbert is delightfully entertaining at all times. He gives warmth, power, sympathy and understanding to the role that leaves an indelible mark on the memory of the spectator. Great as has been his work in "The Merry Widow," "The Show," "Flesh and the Devil" and other recent successes, his portrayal of the American doughboy in France remains his best.

Renee Adoree as the little French girl, Melisande, is unforgettable. Miss Adoree is a natural-born actress and in this part prove to have heretofore unsuspected his trionic power.

AT THE GRAND

Motion picture goes who love thrills surely saw them last night and will have another chance tonight. The Grand Theater has Joe E. Brown and Frankie Darro opening in "The Circus Kid." The thrill shot spectacle of the circus straining through packing the five ring top. Tumbling clowns living to make you laugh will also be seen. "Man-eating monsters of the jungle raging and ravenous will greet you at the door and will be with you until the end.

AT THE CLIFTONA

The beautiful Corinne Griffith has a temper—at least, a movie temper, and how! And when Corinne gets mad there's no saving the pieces, because they are nothing but shreds.

Hollywood's "anastocrat of the screen" is just a poor Hungarian peasant in First National's "Prisoners," the celebrated Ferenc Molnar story, directed by William A. Seiter, coming to the Cliftona Theater Wednesday and Thursday.

ant; Frank H. Joyce, blacksmith; Mrs. Helen Lunsford, housewife; Charles S. Baird, retired farmer; Raymond Hann, farmer; W. L. Balthasar, grocer; Paul L. Weaver, coal dealer; C. F. Butcher, carpenter; Clyde Moody, farmer; Edward Hoe, salesman; Roy S. Stiffey, mechanical engineer; Harold E. Brown, shoemaker.

The only woman on the jury, Mrs. Helen Lunsford, is a thin, elderly housewife with glasses. She wore a pink checkered dress and pink hat with a pink flower on it.

Declaring that Dr. James H. Snook, on trial for the murder of Miss Theora Hix, pretty young co-ed, "is seriously ill," attorneys for the defense made a motion until such time as Snook's condition permits him to go on with the ordeal.

Judge Henry L. Scarlett overruled the motion and ordered the trial to proceed.

Pale and wan, Dr. Snook was returned to his seat in the prisoner's dock. During a recess he had been lying on a table in an ante-room, his head resting on a law book.

OVERRULED BY JUDGE

"I have been having Dr. Snook examined by Dr. Brundage every noon and he has reported that while the defendant is suffering with a severe headache, he is physically able to be present in court," declared Judge Scarlett.

Snook's illness dates back to last Saturday when his spine was tapped while undergoing a physical examination at the hands of Dr. H. M. Brundage.

Attorney E. O. Ricketts of defense counsel addressed the court, charging that an attendant had failed to give Snook his medicine last night.

Snook sat slumped in his chair, his eyes closed. He had removed his coat on account of the intense heat.

STATES FINAL CHALLENGE

The state exercised its final peremptory challenge this morning in excusing juror number eight, Eliot P. Rexford, a metallurgical engineer, and examination of talesman proceeded. The defense had three peremptory challenges left.

When court opened, a new venire of thirty talesmen were summoned into the courtroom. Calling of the roll disclosed that six had failed to respond. One produced a doctor's certificate in pleading illness. The others were sworn in after Judge Scarlett addressed them. Explaining their responsibilities as prospective jurors. There were seven women in the new panel.

Dr. Snook, the defendant, sat hunched down in his chair, his eyes closed, apparently paying little attention to the examining of jurors. He has been feeling poorly as a result of a physical examination the new panel.

BIG PARADE IS ON AT THE MET

John Gilbert, in that magnificent screen triumph, "The Big Parade," came to the Met theater last night and proved that all his popularity is justly deserved. The picture is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production directed by King Vidor.

Gilbert plays the part of Jimmy Apperson, one of three buddies who went "over there." He is the only one of the three who lives through the maelstrom of the war. As a simple, human soldier boy, Gilbert reaches the high water mark of his career.

"The Big Parade" is the picture which launched Gilbert as a star. No player has been more fortunate in the choice of a first starring vehicle, for the picture is a tremendous and authentic portrayal of the war, a masterpiece in emotion, a great human comedy. Gilbert is delightfully entertaining at all times. He gives warmth, power, sympathy and understanding to the role that leaves an indelible mark on the memory of the spectator.

Great as has been his work in "The Merry Widow," "The Show," "Flesh and the Devil" and other recent successes, his portrayal of the American doughboy in France remains his best.

Renee Adoree as the little French girl, Melisande, is unforgettable. Miss Adoree is a natural-born actress and in this part prove to have heretofore unsuspected his trionic power.

AT THE GRAND
Motion picture goes who love thrills surely saw them last night and will have another chance tonight. The Grand Theater has Joe E. Brown and Frankie Darro opening in "The Circus Kid." The thrill shot spectacle of the circus straining throngs packing the five ring top.

Tumbling clowns living to make you laugh will also be seen. "Man-eating monsters of the jungle" and ravenous will greet you at the door and will be with you until the end.

AT THE CLIFTONA
The beautiful Corinne Griffith has a temper—at least, a movie temper, and how! And when Corinne gets mad there's no saving the pieces, because they are nothing but shreds.

Hollywood's "aristocrat of the screen" is just a poor Hungarian peasant in First National's "Prisoners," the celebrated Ferenc Molnar story, directed by William A. Seiter, coming to the Cliftona Theater Wednesday and Thursday.

ant; Frank H. Joyce, blacksmith; Mrs. Helen Lunsford, housewife; Charles S. Baird, retired farmer; Raymond Hann, farmer; W. L. Balthaser, grocer; Paul L. Weaver, coal dealer; C. F. Butche, carpenter; Clyde Moody, farmer; Edward Hoe, salesman; Roy S. Stiffey, mechanical engineer; Harold E. Brown, shoemaker.

The only woman on the jury, Mrs. Helen Lunsford, is a thin, elderly housewife with glasses. She wore a pink checkered dress and a pink hat with a pink flower on it. Declaring that Dr. James H. Snook, on trial for the murder of Miss Theora Hix, pretty young co-ed, "is seriously ill," attorneys for the defense made a motion to-day that the trial be halted until such time as Snook's condition permits him to go on with the ordeal.

Judge Henry L. Scarlett overruled the motion and ordered the trial to proceed.

Pale and wan, Dr. Snook was returned to his seat in the prisoner's dock. During a recess he had been lying on a table in an ante-room, his head resting on a law book.

OVERULED BY JUDGE
"I have been having Dr. Snook examined by Dr. Brundage every noon and he has reported that while the defendant is suffering with a severe headache, he is physically able to be present in court," declared Judge Scarlett.

Snook's illness dates back to last Saturday when his spine was tapped while undergoing a physical examination at the hands of Dr. H. M. Brundage.

Attorney E. O. Ricketts of defense counsel addressed the court, charging that an attendant had failed to give Snook his medicine last night.

Snook sat slumped in his chair, his eyes closed. He had removed his coat on account of the intense heat.

STATES FINAL CHALLENGE.
The state exercised its final peremptory challenge this morning in excusing juror number eight, Elliott P. Rexford, a metallurgical engineer, and examination of talesman proceeded. The defense had three peremptory challenges left.

When court opened, a new venire of thirty talesmen were summoned into the courtroom. Calling of the roll disclosed that six had failed to respond. One produced a doctor's certificate in pleading illness. The others were sworn in after Judge Scarlett addressed them. Explaining their responsibilities as prospective jurors. There were seven women in the new panel.

Dr. Snook, the defendant, sat hunched down in his chair, his eyes closed, apparently paying little attention to the examining of jurors. He has been feeling poorly as a result of a physical examination last Saturday when his spine was tapped. During court recesses he lies down on a cot in an ante-room.

After a lengthy examination, Mrs. Maude Dusenbery, a housewife, was accepted as a juror. She took seat number eight, again filling the jury box with tentatively accepted jurors. A recess was then declared.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hix, parents of the slain girl, were not in court today. They spent the forenoon in the prosecuting attorney's office.

EXPECT END SOON
For fear the defense may continue the fight until all its challenges are exhausted, a third venire of thirty talesmen has been summoned. The first venire, which ran out on Monday, contained 75 talesmen. Of the second venire of 50, only ten prospective jurors remain for possible interrogation.

When 12 jurors are finally accepted by both sides they will be sworn in. Then the court will proceed to choose a thirteenth or emergency juror. Each side has the privilege of two peremptory challenges in selecting the emergency jurors.

Miss Edith Dysinger, former nurse of insane patients, who had sat on the tentative jury from the first day, was dismissed by Judge Henry L. Scarlett when it became known that she engaged in a corridor conversation with one of the defense attorneys, Max C. Seyfert, of Circleville, O.

TALKED OF FAMILIES
The conversation wasn't about the Snook case at all. Attorney Seyfert insisted, but Miss Dysinger was ousted just the same. He said they talked about "old family connections." He asked the nurse if she were any relation to a Miss Dysinger who taught school in Circleville for a number of years and she said she was.

"When I was home over the week-end," Seyfert told International News Service, "my family recalled that my father, 40 years ago, bought a race horse of her uncle, John Dysinger, and I was telling her my father named it 'Johnny D.' after Mr. Dysinger."

"We laughed and thought nothing about it. I also recalled that my father also had been interested in violins and that he called at her uncle's home, near Amanda, O., to see several violins he had. It was a perfectly innocent conversation."

SNAPS PICTURE
A photographer, Joseph Costa, snapped a picture of the pair chatting away at a soda fountain. The incident was brought to the attention of Prosecutor John J. Chester, Jr., and he reported it to the judge and, upon agreement by both sides, Miss Dysinger was disqualified as a juror.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Lamb have returned from a visit of several weeks with her relatives at Brewster and Massillon, O. Tuesday they spent the day in Columbus.

ers gave a daring exhibition before alighting and being swamped by the thousands who braved a rainstorm to swarm to Lambert field. The plane was neat and tidy as a New England kitchen. The instrument board shone.

As for the condition of the human engines that likewise underwent the gruelling strain, the flight physician made the startling announcement that O'Brine had gained a pound and a half during the flight, thanks to frequent helpings of fried chicken and broiled squab prepared by his wife. Jackson's weight remained stationary.

GAIN WEIGHT
It had been predicted that each flyer would lose between fifteen and twenty pounds as a result of the ordeal.

Fifteen thousand frenzied admirers stamped through a cordon of policemen and special guards when the endurance champions landed.

The wild, howling mob broke through all barriers and pounded on the pilots and it was only after 15 minutes of skull pounding and shin kicking that the police were able to wrest Jackson and O'Brine from the riotous throng and spirit the airmen to a hangar where their wives waited.

Their hearing was not impaired by the deafening, incessant roar of the motor.

"We could have kept it going another 200 hours. We had decided to wear the motor out but after we heard that George Lea Lambert was killed, we changed our plans and decided to come down," said Jackson.

Lambert, wealthy young aviator, son of the founder of Lambert Field and intimate friend of the endurance pilots, was killed here Monday in an airplane crash in which a student pilot also died.

"Yes," O'Brine agreed, "we would have kept on going if that hadn't happened. I'm confident we could take up that same ship and break the record we just made."

O'Brine revealed that Jackson handled the ship during contacts with the refueling plane, while he took care of the refueling. Most of the motor adjustments were made by Jackson on the Robin's four inch catwalk.
